

What is dementia?

The term dementia is used to describe a collection of brain disorders that trigger a loss of brain function.

Who is affected?

1 in 6

people over the age of 80 have dementia

What are the symptoms?

Personality changes

Memory loss

Changes in vision

Difficulty with words and numbers

Confusion in familiar environments

How can we help?

Dementia may mean there comes a time when you or a loved one needs help making decisions. Naturally, those decisions should be made by someone who has your best interests at heart. A Lasting Power of Attorney (LPA) gives you peace of mind that the right decisions can be made for you by someone who cares. We can help by drawing up your LPA, acting for you, or helping your loved ones manage your affairs.
